Fred was right. Eggs were getting grabbed left and right. Sunny was trying his hardest to look for eggs, but wherever Sunny looked, there seemed to be no eggs! Sunny gave up and started back to the starting line. Suddenly, there was a shine of gold from somewhere high.

Sunny: The announcer didn't say how high the eggs would be! With high expectations, Sunny gave a mighty jump and grabbed the golden egg! He floated back down and ran all the way back to the start.

Sunny: I did it! I got the golden egg!

Everyone came back from hunting to see Sunny's golden egg.

Announcer: Now, how about you crack the egg and see what special prize you have won Sunny!

Sunny cracked the egg and took a look at the paper inside. He looked disappointed.

Niota: Is something wrong with the prize Sunny?

Sunny: No, I just thought that ten-thousand Universiums is a little much!

Fred: No way! Ten thousand big ones!

The crowd cheered and Sunny (in high spirits) drove everyone home.

Later that night...

Niota: Sunny?

Sunny: Yeah?

Niota: What are you going to buy with ten-thousand Universiums?

Sunny: You know, I was thinking about that. Since this family has been somewhat poor for a while, I was thinking of buying some better furniture and stuff like that.

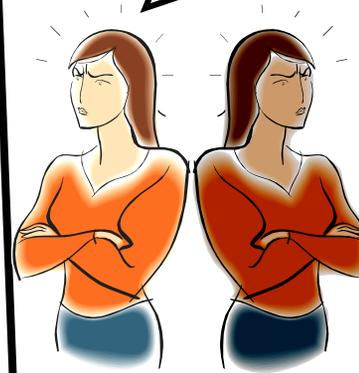

Niota: Anything else?

Sunny: Actually, yeah. Cheryl, Fred, and I may or may not make it to college because we have sort of in-the-black-hole grades, and you have awesome grades for your age, I was thinking that maybe you could use the rest of the money to go to college, buy your own comet someday or something.

Niota: Thanks a lot Sunny. I wish every big brother was like you.

Sunny: I don't. I mean, it would be weird having Fred do this kind of thing, wouldn't it?

This is Sunny and Aurora here! Like my new look?
Aurora: I guess so, Sunny. Very appropriate for St. Patrick's Day.

Sunny: I'm a four-leaf clover, I'm holding gold, what could be better?

Aurora: Easter.

Sunny: Oh yah, I forgot Easter was this month too! That's why you have a basket of eggs!

Aurora: That's why.

Sunny: What are we going to do for April if Easter is going to be in March!

Aurora: Gee, I don't know. Good question Sunny.

Sunny: I've got it! April will be the Quiz Edition!

Aurora: Hooray! Quiz Editions are fun!

Sunny: How would you know; you only got introduced to Real Appeal a month ago.

Aurora: There are past issues on Real Appeal's website, Sunny!

Sunny: Oh, right. So, could I have an Easter egg for one of my chocolate coins?

Aurora: Two of your chocolate coins.

Sunny: WHAT!? Okay, you win.
(trade)

Davis: I WANT SOMETHING!

(Aurora gives chocolate bunny)

Fred, Cheryl, Niota, Jason: Us too!

Sunny's Great Easter Egg Hunt

Jason: Come ON Sunny! We're going to miss the egg hunt!

Sunny: Alright already! Do you have five dollars for everyone to enter in this Easter Egg Hunt?

Cheryl: You mean like, five dollars each?

Sunny: Yes, I mean five dollars each!

Fred: Oh I can pay for that! I always have money in my pockets.

Sunny: I don't have lots of money because I have to buy the food, I have to pay the rent, I have to—

Davis: Oh just shut up Sunny and let Fred pay the money!

Sunny: (grumbles as Fred pays)

Niota: Alright, lets get in!

Our friends go through the gate into the big cluster of other stars there for the annual egg hunt.

Announcer: This year, we have something very special planned, and it's not just the egg hunt, free food, and prize giveaways!

No, this year, we have one golden egg that is hidden very carefully so only the sharpest eye may see it! May I explain that eggs go no further than the school, and no wider than the Speckle-Shine Comet Wash. Baskets everybody! You can buy some at the ticket stand if you don't have one already.

Jason: I'm going to win that golden egg!

Davis: No, I am!

Cheryl: Well, I have sharper eyes than the both of you!

Sunny buys some baskets at the ticket stand for the six of them.

Announcer: On your mark! Get set! Hey, someone's not set...
GO!

The egg hunters go for the easiest eggs hidden among the trees, bushes, and tallest grass.

Fred: Hey Sunny! I have seven eggs! How many do you have?

Sunny: None.

Fred: Well get moving, the eggs are getting grabbed every second we speak!

Ellie's Guide to Everything

Dear Ellie,

There is this girl who is really starting to bug me. A few months ago, a girl in my class and a really popular girl had a fight and they didn't talk for months. Then the really popular girl started accepting this girl again and they spread a really cruel rumor about my friend. Now the popular girl is mad at her again. So this girl thinks she can just start hanging out with us again! A couple other girls (including me) used to be her friend, and she thinks she can go and use us like that!! What do me and my friends do!!

Really Truly Seriously Annoyed

Dear Really Truly Seriously Annoyed,

I'm sure this girl really is bugging you. She has no right to just take total advantage of you. My advice, stick with the girls who stuck with you the whole time. Yeah, sure be nice to this girl, but don't let her forget what she did to you. It sounds like this girl is really insecure and when the popular girl at your school is friends with her again; my bet is that she will leave you for her. Keep together and strengthen your friendship with your good friends. And just ignore this girl. But be nice. She probably just wants someone to be there for her. But don't let that fool you. Stick together!

Your Good Friend,

Ellie

Dinner is Served!

Dear Readers,

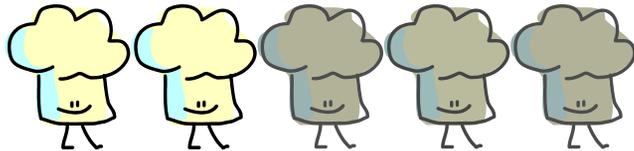

I usually give you all the safety tips and such, but I am only here today to give you the good stuff with some Easter fun.

On today's menu: Peanut Butter Easter Nest

Ingredients: 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
2 cups powdered sugar
1/2 cup of butter, melted
2/3 cup of smooth peanut butter
1 teaspoon of vanilla
1 cup of jelly beans or M&M's

Directions: In a large bowl mix all ingredients together. Divide mixture into twelve portions and place in cupcake liners. Push thumb into mixture to press up sides and form an indentation in the center (this is the bird's nest). Then add jelly beans or M&M's for the eggs.

Below is the Easy Scale, where I tell you how easy it is to make the above recipe.

2 out of 5 hats. This recipe is pretty easy to make.

Notes from the Chef: This is an easy no-cook recipe I hope you enjoy. Happy Easter!

Hanna's Health

This month: Diabetes

Well do you want to know why I'm doing an article on diabetes? Well I'm doing a poster for National History Day (NHD). Do you want to know about diabetes? I know a lot (I have a friend who has it) but I'll summarize.

There are three types of diabetes. Here is some info on each of them.

Pre-diabetes: When your blood sugar isn't high enough to be diabetes, but is stable enough to be prevented.

Type 1: This is the type when you need insulin.

Type 2: This is when you are out of weight and aren't healthy.

Sunny: Well at least stars don't get diabetes in space! Well, I guess I'm a four leaf clover at the moment...
